PROFILE

Brittany has a passion to see people experience the truth of God's Word and the power of His grace through writing, speaking, and podcasting. She is the founder of Truth and Grace Ministries and For the Mama Heart, leads a women's event in Denver called Truth and Grace Women, and hosts the Truth x Grace Podcast. She also regularly contributes to Propel Women, Focus on the Family, and YouVersion. Brittany lives with her husband, Ryan, and son, Roman, in Castle Rock, Colorado

Fun facts about Britt: she loves a good outdoor adventure, Andy's Frozen Custard, nibbling on her son's yummy cheeks, and binge-watching Downton Abbey. She's also a big fan of road trips, great food, and new experiences. Coffee is a must have in her life and she prefers the mountains, rain, and cooler weather.

HELLO!

If you're reading this it's because we share a similar heart to encourage women. My passion to pour into the women's hearts began as soon as I entered ministry 16 years ago.

Women are a beautiful gift to their communities, families, and churches. Created to be both fierce and tender in their love; loyal to their tribe while embracing a new friend; carrying so much without missing the smaller details in life. But women today are also worn out, feeling isolated, and struggling to find their place in this world.

You are already doing so much to speak life into the women in your community. I'd love to join our hearts together; there's nothing I would consider more of joy and honor than to lift up your arms. If you're having a women's event and looking for a speaker, I'd love to chat with you.

You can learn more about my experience in the bio to the left and hear more about my passion in the video. Afterward, send me a message through the contact form if you'd like to chat more or submit a speaking request form.

Thank you for all you are doing to further Kingdom work. Ministry is hard but you are making such a beautiful difference!
